

Biography – Braden Sanchez

31-year-old Father, Husband, Freelance Marketer, Air Traffic Controller.

An experienced air traffic controller with a passion for technology and creative problem solving. Father of one 3-year-old angel of a daughter and married to my loving wife who I owe everything to. With five years of experience directing air traffic, high-pressure situations are my specialty. I also have a natural fascination with the latest tech gadgets and innovations. My creative outlook helps me approach challenges in new ways.

I've been freelancing in graphic design and marketing for around 5 years, helping businesses strengthen their brands. My diverse interests allow me to bridge aviation, marketing, and design. Outside of work, I prioritize spending time with my family and sharing varied passions with my friends - computers, high fidelity audio, fitness, powerlifting, video games, craft beer, etc. I'm a potluck of hobbies that seems to grow every 6 months or so.

I am excited to connect my experience in aviation, technology, and creative services to new opportunities with Assured Science to help fundamentally change scientific research and its community.
